About Central Film School

Central Film School is a film school based in South West London, running undergraduate and postgraduate programmes as well as a portfolio of non-accredited courses. Our mission is to give independent voices the skills and knowledge needed to tell their stories through film. Our 'practical-first' approach, allows us to train filmmakers, screenwriters and actors to work in the industry as soon as they graduate, both in the UK and internationally.

“I found a lot of people who were as passionate as I am for filmmaking on this course and working with likeminded people was really fun. I learned how people work on sound, lighting, the camera and I understand how to build a set. I was introduced to Philipp, he was one of the best teachers I’ve ever met and what he taught really helped me a lot.”

Calling all Future Filmmakers and Actors

We at Central Film School believe that you're never too young (or old) to tell stories. Since 2008 we've provided thousands of budding filmmakers from all over the world with the skills and training they need to make their cinematic dreams a reality. We're delighted to launch both of our Future Filmmakers Summer Programme's with our partner FindEducation for 2026. These camps will introduce you to the fundamentals of filmmaking or the key principles of acting, from story development through the production phase to improvisation and screen acting. Classes are delivered by Central Film School filmmaking, screenwriting, and acting tutors in the following key areas:

- Script development
- Acting for Screen
- Lighting and cinematography
- Camera operation
- Editing
- Sound

You can choose to stay in our state-of-the-art residential accommodation with your classmates and fully immerse yourself in your cinematic project and the Summer camp experience. The course ends with a screening and wrap-party at our campus, where we can celebrate your success, and you get to see your name up on the big screen.

Start your filmmaking or acting journey this Summer with Central Film School.
